CIVIL WAR AUTOGRAPHED STOCKS, BONDS, CHECKS, ETC.

The American Civil War (1861–1865) took more American lives than any other war in history combined. It so divided the people of the U.S. that in some families brother fought against brother. The Civil War was between the Southern States, the “Confederacy” led by President Jefferson Davis trying to preserve slavery, and the Northern States, the “Union” led by President Abraham Lincoln, dedicated to ending slavery.

The Civil War is also known as the War Between the States and the War of Secession. It started on April 12, 1861, when Southern troops fired on Fort Sumter, a U.S. military fort on the coast of Charleston, SC. The war ended four years later. On April 9, 1865, Confederate General Robert E. Lee surrendered his ragged army to Union General Ulyses S. Grant at Appomattox Court House. The other Confederate armies gave up soon after.

The War Between the States held several firsts in history. It was the first war to be completely and immediately reported in the press to the people back home. Civilians in the North were especially well informed of the war’s progress. Northern newspapers sent their best correspondents into the field and received their reports by telegraph. Civil War Soldiers were the first to use repeating arms, which could fire several shots without reloading. It also introduced observation balloons, iron-clad ships, mines, submarines, and railroads into warfare.

Some Civil War figures are among the nation’s most beloved heroes. Lincoln in particular became a respected figure throughout the world. Here are several other important individuals that became famous in the Civil War.

William Tecumseh Sherman accepted a commission as a colonel in the 13th U.S. Infantry regiment on May 14, 1861. He was one of the few Union officers to distinguish himself at the First Battle of Bull Run on July 21, where he was grazed by bullets in the knee and shoulder. The disastrous Union defeat led Sherman to question his own judgment as an officer, but President Abraham Lincoln promoted him to brigadier general of volunteers (effective May 17, which gave him more senior rank than that of Ulysses S. Grant, his future commander). He was assigned to command the Department of the Cumberland in Louisville, Kentucky.

William T. Sherman

Sherman became increasingly pessimistic about the outlook of the war and repeatedly made estimates of the strength of the rebel forces that proved exaggerated, causing the local press to describe him as “crazy.” In the fall of 1861, Sherman experienced what would probably be described today as a nervous breakdown. He was put on leave and returned to Ohio to recuperate. Sherman quickly name. This check was from Sherman’s personal account with the new Sherman & Co. Bankers. Dated 1870’s, he also signs “W. T. Sherman.” Neatly cut cancelled. Especially great color and graphics. Excellent Condition. $650

GENERAL WM. T. SHERMAN-CHECK-WASHINGTON, D.C.

AE2. William Tecumseh Sherman (1820-1891), an Union Civil War General, businessman, educator, and author. He served as a general in the U.S. Army during the American Civil War (1861–65), receiving both recognition for his outstanding command of military strategy and criticism for the harshness of the “scorched earth” policies he implemented in conducting total war against the enemy. Military historian Basil Liddell Hart famously declared that Sherman was the first modern general. Riggs & Co check dated 1876-1880 is signed W.T. Sherman. Rare!! $500

GENERAL WM. T. SHERMAN-CHECK-WASHINGTON, D.C.

AE3. William Tecumseh Sherman (1820-1891), General & Commander of the Army-1869-1884. In 1850, Sherman married Thomas Ewing’s daughter, Eleanor Boyle (“Ellen”) Ewing. Ellen was, like her mother, a devout Catholic and their eight children were raised in that faith. To Sherman’s great displeasure and sorrow, one of his sons, Thomas Ewing Sherman, was ordained a Jesuit priest in 1879. Thomas would preside over his father’s funeral mass in 1891. This check is made out to & endorsed at back “(Ellen Ewing Sherman) Mrs. General Sherman” by Sherman’s wife. Also signed at front by W. T. Sherman. A great combination. Neatly cut cancelled, Nice Condition. Rare! $650

AE3a. Same as above signed by Sherman and made payable to various people. $575

Mississippi, Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Virginia, Arkansas, North Carolina, and Tennessee secede from the Union. Confederate States of America is formed in Montgomery, AL.

Gen. Ulysses S. Grant

recovered and returned to service under Maj. Gen. Henry W. Halleck, Halleck harbored doubts about Brig. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, and his plans to capture Fort Donelson. Unbeknownst to Grant, Halleck offered several officers, including Sherman, command of Grant's army. Sherman refused, saying he preferred serving under Grant, even though he outranked him. Sherman wrote to Grant from Paducah, "Command me in any way. I feel anxious about you as I know the great facilities [the Confederates] have of concentration by means of the river and railroad, but [I] have faith in you."

On March 1, 1862, he got his wish of serving under Grant. His first major test under Grant was at the Battle of Shiloh. The massive Confederate attack on the morning of April 6 took most of the senior Union commanders by surprise. Sherman in particular had dismissed the intelligence reports that he had received from militia officers. He took no precautions beyond strengthening his picket lines, refusing to entrench, build abatis, or push out reconnaissance patrols. At Shiloh he may have wished to avoid appearing overly alarmed in order to escape the kind of criticism he had received in Kentucky. He had written to his wife that, if he took more precautions, "they'd call me crazy again."

Despite being caught unprepared by the attack, Sherman rallied his division and conducted an orderly, fighting retreat that helped prevent a disastrous Union rout. Finding Grant at the end of the day sitting under an oak tree in the darkness smoking a cigar, he experienced, in his own words "some wise and sudden instinct not to mention retreat." Instead, in what would become one of the most famous conversations of the war, Sherman said simply: "Well, Grant, we've had the devil's own day, haven't we?" After a puff of his cigar Grant replied calmly: "Yes. Lick 'em tomorrow, though." Sherman would prove instrumental to the successful Union counterattack of April 7. At Shiloh, Sherman was wounded twice—in the hand and shoulder—and had three horses shot out from under him.

Nathan Bedford Forrest, a Confederate general and perhaps the American Civil War's most highly regarded cavalry and partisan ranger (guerrilla leader). Forrest is regarded by many military historians as the war's most innovative and successful general. His tactics of mobile warfare are still studied by modern soldiers.

Forrest first distinguished himself in battle at the Battle of Fort Donelson in February 1862, where he led a cavalry charge against a Union artillery battery and captured it, and then led a breakout from a siege by the Union army under Ulysses S. Grant. He had tried to persuade his superiors of the

Nathan Bedford Forrest

NATHAN BEDFORD FORREST-SELMA, MARION AND MEMPHIS RR AE4. Nathan Bedford Forrest (1821-1877), $1,000 Gold Bond dated 1869 and signed on the front and back by Confederate General Forrest. He was most famous for carrying out daring and tactically brilliant raids behind Union lines. His reputation as a courageous soldier and superior cavalry leader is darkened by his failure to prevent the massacre of Negro soldiers at Fort Pillow in 1864. In addition, it is said that he was briefly involved in early activities of the Ku Klux Klan. Yet he is still considered to be one of the greatest of Confederate Generals. This exceptional bond is extremely graphic and has imprinted revenues at front and back. Most of these bonds have disappeared from the marketplace due to strong demand because of their uncanceled appeal. Demand from Civil War buffs for the 2 autographed signatures has led to the cutting of the bond into two pieces to enable the sale of the two autographs separately. Of course, this great Southern bond is intact. It shows some toning but has nice eye appeal. This is the only piece of this Rare bond that we've seen in a long long time. So Important and in great demand! Be sure to phone as this bond is likely to sell quickly at this price. $2,250

GENERAL WILLIAM MAHONE VIRGINIA & TENNESSEE RR BOND AE5. Confederate General William Mahone (1826-1895), he signs this Virginia & Tennessee Railroad Bond. Various denomination bonds dated in the 1860's-early 70's. Superb engraved graphics by National Bank Note Co. The fine detail in the 3 vignettes is superb. Hole cancelled but reasonably clear dark signature. Another great addition to any Southern or Confederate collection. Excellent Condition. $175 Each for your choice of denomination of $100, $500, or $1,000 or the Set of 3 for $400 feasibility of retreating out of the fort across the Cumberland River, but they refused to listen. Forrest angrily walked out of a meeting and declared that he had not led his men into battle to surrender. He proved his point when he rallied nearly 4,000 troops. These men followed Forrest across the river and were thus spared to fight again. A few days later, with the fall of Nashville imminent, Forrest took command of the city and evacuated several government officials and millions of dollars in heavy machinery used to make weapons, something the Confederacy could ill afford to lose.

At the Battle of Shiloh (April 6 to April 7, 1862), Forrest found himself in command of the Confederate rear guard after a lost battle, and again he distinguished himself. Late in the battle, he charged the Union skirmish line, driving through it. Finding himself in the midst of the enemy without any of his own troops around him, he first emptied his pistols and then pulled his saber. A union infantryman on the ground beside him fired a rifle at Forrest, hitting him in the side, and lifting him out of his saddle. The ball went through his pelvis and lodged near his spine. Steadying himself and his mount, with one arm, he lifted the Union soldier by the shirt collar, and used him as a human shield to avoid more gunfire before casting him aside. Forrest is acknowledged to have been the last man wounded at the Battle of Shiloh. He was later cleared of any violations of the rules of war in regard to the massacre at Fort Pillow, and was allowed to return to private life. Forrest died in October 1877, from complications of diabetes.

William Mahone was widely regarded as the hero of the Battle of the Crater on July 30, 1864, during the Siege of Petersburg of 1864–65. Former Pennsylvania coal miners in the Union army tunneled under the Confederate line and blew it up in a massive explosion, killing and wounding many Confederates and breaching a key point in the defense line around Petersburg. However, they lost their initial advantage and Mahone rallied the remaining Confederate forces nearby, repelling the attack. After beginning as an innovative initiative, the Crater scheme turned into a terrible loss for the Union leaders. He was promoted to major general as a result.

William Mahone

John Dix on Jan 29, 1861, just two weeks into his service as Treasury secretary, became riled by reports of the seizure of forts, arsenals and Treasury revenue cutters by local authorities in the South without federal government intervention.

Dix wrote a letter that was telegraphed to a Treasury customs official in New Orleans, ordering him to deliver a directive to a Lt. Caldwell to wrest control of the Treasury Department revenue ship, the McClelland from the hands of its commander, Capt.

GENERAL WILLIAM MAHONE
ATLANTIC MISSISSIPPI & OHIO RR

AE6. VA/MS/OH, Jan. 1, 1874, Bond. Confederate General William Mahone (1826-1895) signs as President. The Railroad was formed in 1870 and organized by William Mahone. The AM&O was promoted as a trade link to the west. It was heavily backed by investors from England and Scotland. The AM&O went into receivership after the U.S. Financial Panic of 1873. Mahone's relationship with the bondholders soured, and he was removed as trustee, but was permitted to continue to lead operations. In 1881, the AM&O was sold at auction. It was acquired by other U.S. interests based in Philadelphia. The AM&O was renamed to the Norfolk and Western Railway. Hole cancelled but still quite readable. A Rare Type. $150

GENERAL WILLIAM MAHONE
ATLANTIC MISSISSIPPI & OHIO RR

AE7. General William Mahone (1826-1895), he signs this Atlantic, Mississippi, & Ohio Railroad Stock, VA, 1870, orange imprinted Internal Revenue stamp at center. General Robert E. Lee said after the war that among the younger men he thought William Mahone had developed the highest quality for organization and command. Superb engraved graphics by Continental Bank Note Co. The fine detail in the dark rich vignette is second to none. Great uncanceled signature. Another great addition to any Southern or Confederate collection. Excellent Condition. This is one of our top picks of American Stocks. Special Price! $250

GENERAL WILLIAM MAHONE
ATLANTIC MISSISSIPPI & OHIO RR

AE8. General William Mahone signs this Atlantic, Mississippi, & Ohio RR VA $1,000 Gold Bond dated 1871, orange imprinted Internal Revenue stamp at center; several rows of interest bearing coupons with an engraving of a steam locomotive. The very finest graphics by Continental Bank Note Co. In the top 10 most beautiful American Bonds Ever!!! A great candidate for framing. Mahone's signature is hole cancelled but reasonably clear. Fresh Excellent Condition. $275

Breshwood, who had refused an earlier order to secure control of the cutter.

In his orders, Dix directed the customs official to instruct Lt. Caldwell to arrest Capt. Breshwood if the captain attempted to retain command of the cutter. Dix closed his directive with the words: "If anyone attempts to haul down the American Flag, shoot him on the spot."

John A. Dix

Although the telegram was intercepted by Confederates, and was never delivered to the Treasury agents, the text found its way to the press, and Dix became one of the first heroes of the North during the Civil War.

In the first year the Union asserted control of the border states and established a naval blockade as both sides raised large armies. In 1862 the large, bloody battles began. In September 1862, Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation made the freeing of the slaves a war goal — one bitterly opposed by Copperheads (a faction of Democrats in the North who opposed the American Civil War). Emancipation ensured that Britain and France did not intervene to help the Confederates. In the East, Robert E. Lee rolled up a series of Confederate victories over a series of Union commanders, but his best general, Stonewall Jackson, was killed at the Battle of Chancellorsville in May 1863 by his own troops. Lee's invasion of the North was repulsed at the Battle of Gettysburg in July 1863; he barely managed to escape back to Virginia. In the West, the Union Navy captured New Orleans in 1862, and armies under Ulysses Grant seized control of the Mississippi River by capturing Vicksburg in July 1863, thus splitting the Confederacy.

By 1864 long-term Union advantages in geography, manpower, industry, finance, political organization and transportation were overwhelming the Confederacy. Grant fought a bloody series of battles with Lee in Virginia in the summer of 1864. Lee won in a tactical sense but lost strategically, as he could not replace his casualties and was forced to retreat into trenches around his capital, Richmond, Virginia. Meanwhile William T. Sherman captured Atlanta and marched to the sea, destroying a wide swath of Georgia. In 1865 the Confederacy collapsed as Lee and Mahone surrendered and all the slaves were freed.

The full restoration of the Union was the work of a highly contentious postwar era known as the Reconstruction. The war produced more than 970,000 casualties (3% of the population), including approximately 620,000 soldier deaths — two-thirds by disease. The causes of the war, the reasons for the outcome, and even the name of the war itself, are subjects of lingering controversy, even today. The main results of the war were the restoration and strengthening of the Union, and the end of slavery in the United States.

SOLDIERS BOUNTY FUND BOND NO 2 AE15. "Union Bounty Fund" Bond, County of New York, Aug. 15, 1864. Signed by Mayor of New York C. G. Gunther. Very Pretty! $200

ROBERT E LEE-AUTOGRAPHED LETTER SIGNED AE16. Robert E. Lee (1807-1870) U.S. Army officer and the most celebrated general of the Confederate forces during the American Civil War. Lee at first opposed the Confederacy and nearly accepted a major Union command, but when his home state of Virginia seceded he chose to join with his family and neighbors and fight for Virginia. This great letter written from "Arlington, Near Alex. Va., May 26, 1858" is boldly written and has great eye appeal. The letter is addressed to Mr. Wm. A. Winston. Based on the content, Mr. Winston was caretaker of a property belonging to Lee. It deals with quantities of food shipped to Lee to the Railroad depot at Alexandria. He also writes "The dairy maid Rachel wrote to Mrs. Lee that she had sent her a pot of butter of her own making which has not come to hand....." He also deals with issues related to his farm; a mill being built. He refers to a legal issue dealing with a claim by a Mr. McMinors. His comment about this case bring out a bit of his famed integrity "It is not my desire to take any advantage of the circumstances he (McMinors) refers to, but to pay all just claims that are permitted by law. Lee closes the letter with "Please let me know when you propose to make another visit to the White House." A letter with great eye appeal in Excellent Condition. It should be noted that additional research should prove interesting related to the legal matters etc. that are referred to. A photocopy of the letter can be supplied by mail, fax, or a scan can be emailed. This is the only Robert E. Lee letter that we've had pass through our hands. $5,900

W. D. MANN-MANN'S BOUDOIR (RAILROAD) CAR CO

AE20. William D'Alton Mann (1839-1920), Important Civil War Officer, Editor, Inventor. Captain 1st Michigan Cavalry, organized 1st Mounted Rifles, afterwards 5th Mich. Cavalry, and Daniel's Horse Battery, 1862; organized 7th Mich. Cavalry and Gunther's Horse Battery (these troops composing Mich. Cavalry Brigade); Colonel 1862; devised improvements in accoutrements of troops, used in the US and Austrian Armies. He was a pioneer manufacturer of cotton-seed oil; several years proprietor of the Mobile Register, invented and patented the boudoir car in 1871, and introduced it throughout Europe; organized the Mann Boudoir Car Co.-NY in 1883 which was later bought out by Pullman Co. This gorgeous $1,000 Gold Bond dated 1886 is engraved by Franklin Bank Note Co.-NY and is signed at front by Mann as President. The decent number of coupons are equally attractive. Even the back of the bond has an attractive Female vignette. Particularly Exciting in many ways!!! $175

STERLING PRICE- CONFEDERATE GENERAL

AE21. Sterling Price (1809-1867), Governor of Missouri, representative, Very Important Confederate General. Representative 1844-46, Brigadier General in the Mexican War and Military governor of Chihuahua, elected Governor of Missouri in 1852. At the start of the Civil War, he was placed in command of the state troops, beat the Union army in the battle of Wilson's Creek and killed the commander, Nathaniel Lyon, thus making him very popular among Southerners. Then he marched northward and captured 3,000 Federal troops at Lexington in Sept. 1861. Fremont's forces forced his retreat into Arkansas where his troops officially joined the Confederate Army in April 1862. His later efforts mostly failed though he was perhaps the leading secession figure west of the Mississippi. Jefferson once pronounced him the "vainest man he ever met". His friends however insisted that he was a man of character and military genius. At the end of the war, he settled in Mexico but following the collapse of Maximilian's empire he returned in 1866 to Missouri a broken man. $1,000 Bond signed by Sterling Price as Governor. This 1853 State of Missouri Bond is neatly mounted to its original ledger paper, a loose strip of coupons is also present. The clear signature is very slightly hole cancelled. Rare and Important Confederate General's Autograph! $250

CONFEDERATE COTTON LOAN- £500

AE41. Jan. 29, 1863 Act, Criswell-118, Cotton Loan Bond issued in Europe by J. Henry Schroder & Co. and Emilie Erlanger & Co. Tri-valued at: 500 Pounds Sterling-12,500 French Francs-20,000 pounds of cotton. A key attraction of the Confederate bonds was that they were "cotton backed" and were exchangeable into New Orleans cotton at a rate of six pence sterling per pound (at a time when the going rate in England was better than twenty pence per pound). The catch was that the Confederate government undertook to deliver this cotton to one of its ports only after peace had been made -- while the war endured delivery had to be taken inland with the would-be recipient also having to run the Union blockade to get the cotton out. Signed by John Slidell, a U.S. and Confederate diplomat whose seizure with James M. Mason precipitated the Trent Affair during the American Civil War. Printed on quality heavy watermarked paper, very ornate engraved bond (the most attractive of all Confederate issues) with Liberty holding Confederate "Stars and Bars" leaning on bales of cotton and gazing across the sea. Nearly complete coupons at left and right. Truly a Classic! Popular and Very Important! Excellent Condition. $950

AE41a. Same as above but £100, Criswell-116. $850

AE41b. Same as above but £1000, Criswell-119. Very Rare! $1,500

Note: It is well known that Sotheby's sold a large hoard (85,000 pieces) of Confederate bonds in London in the 1980's. The demand has been so strong over time that all these bonds have been absorbed by collectors. We have not seen a decent bunch in years! Just recently, the demand for Confederate bonds has skyrocketed with all issues rising dramatically in price.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN FUNERAL FLAG RELIC

AE59. This silk flag remnant is from a 36 star flag that adorned the interior of one of the funeral railroad cars in the Lincoln funeral train for the duration of its stop at Indianapolis, Indiana on April 30, 1865. The train arrived in Indianapolis at 7:00am that morning and departed at midnight. The copy photo shows Lincoln's car and the officer's car in the funeral train as it appeared on the journey from Washington, DC to Springfield, Illinois in April 1865. This flag was given to the prominent Indianapolis family of James G. McQuillen. Due to the nature of silk flags that deteriorate with age, these remnants are some of the few examples of what the flags looked like. 7" red & white remnant. A photo of the flag is included. Beautifully matted and ready for framing. $250

AUTOGRAPHED STOCKS & BONDS

John D. Rockefeller (1839-1937) American industrialist who played a prominent role in the early oil industry with the founding of Standard Oil (ExxonMobil is the largest of its descendants). In 1863 Rockefeller first joined in building an oil refinery. He monopolized 85% of the industry and became the world's first billionaire. He hated waste and would target poorly run segments of the industry, driving poorly run competition out of business. He became the most detested man in the country and had a bodyguard continuously. Rockefeller gave 3/4 of a billion dollars to science and education. In one of the 1st public relations campaigns in history, Rockefeller would give a shiny new dime to whomever he would meet. In 1910, Rockefeller's net worth was equal to nearly 2.5% of the whole US economy, the equivalent of nearly $310 billion in today's terms, or at least twice as much as Bill Gates, Warren Buffett and Sam Walton's fortunes combined.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RR

AE63. The signing of the charter for the Northern Pacific by Abraham Lincoln in 1864 and the completion of its mainline in 1883 were major factors in the opening of the northern tier of U. S. The Northern Pacific was involved in some key events affecting the development of the nation, such as: the demise of Custer's troops, the financial collapses of 1873 and 1893, and the anti-trust legislation of the early 1900's. The NP was an early innovator in the areas of on-board dining services, the 4-8-4 and 2-8-8-4 steam locomotive designs, the center-truss flat car and much more. This Stock dated 1884 is issued to and signed at back by John D. Rockefeller. $2,800

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER
W. C. ANDREWS
STANDARD OIL TRUST

AE67. Wallace C. Andrews (1833-1899) one of the original founders of Standard Oil. He served as director of the company until the trust was formed. The Standard Oil Trust was formed in 1863 by John D. Rockefeller. He built up the company through 1868 to become the largest oil refinery firm in the world. In 1870, the company was renamed Standard Oil Company, after which Rockefeller decided to buy up all the other competition and form them into one large company. The company faced legal issues in 1890 following passage of the Sherman Antitrust Act. That also brought unwanted attention to the company by Ida M. Tarbell, a McClure's Magazine reporter, who began an investigation. Following publication of her report, the Standard Oil Company was forced to break up into separate state companies — the "Seven Sisters" — each with its own board of directors. This Stock dated 1887 is issued to W. C. Andrews and signed boldly at back by Andrews. Henry Flagler signs as Secretary. John D. Rockefeller's signature at front is especially large and bold. Excellent Condition. Extremely Rare signed by Andrews. $3,500

SAMUEL CLEMENS - MARK TWAIN

SAMUEL LANGHORNE CLEMENS

AE70. Samuel L. Clemens (1835-1910) better known by his pen name "Mark Twain", was an American humorist, satirist, novelist, writer, and lecturer. He enjoyed immense public popularity. At his peak, he was probably the most popular American celebrity of his time. In 1907, crowds at the Jamestown Exposition thronged just to get a glimpse of him. Fellow American author William Faulkner is credited with writing that Twain was "the first truly American writer, and all of us since are his heirs." The Green Common Share stock at right is signed at back by "S. L. Clemens" as witness to the transfer of stock by T. W. Crane, the shares are being transferred to William K. Vanderbilt. This stock includes a somewhat rough condition journal that indicates in two sections that Clemens owned both Preferred and Common Share Certificates. Sadly, these stocks were never found! It was so very exciting to locate this Common Share certificate signed by Clemens. The original journal is included along with 4 other green common stocks that are issued to a La Mott Ames. When Clemens sold his stock, his shares were transferred to Ames. The group includes journal, green Clemens signed stock, and 4 additional stocks connected to Clemens shares. All originating from the University of Syracuse Archive. $7,500

AE70a. Similar group with brown Preferred Stock signed in the same manner by Clemens plus related photocopies from the journal and 5 related preferred stocks, 5 of the total of 6 stocks are transferred to Cornelius Vanderbilt. A great group equal to the above. $7,500

NICHOLAS BIDDLE
BANK OF THE UNITED STATES,
PHILADELPHIA

AE75. Nicholas Biddle (1786-1844) American Scholar, Statesman, Financier. Biddle worked on a narrative of William Clark's Louisiana expedition. It was published in 1814 as History of the Expedition of Captains Lewis and Clark. Invited by President Monroe to become one of the five government directors of the (second) Bank of the United States. Critics at the time said Biddle's Bank was to blame for the Panic of 1819 because of its tight credit policy. The Panic of 1819 was the first major financial crisis in the United States. It featured widespread foreclosures, bank failures, unemployment, and a slump in agriculture and manufacturing. For example unemployment reached 75 percent in the American city of Philadelphia, and 1,800 workers were imprisoned for debt. In Baltimore, the unemployed set up a city of tents on the outskirts of the city. Biddle signs as President on this 1837 Bank of the United States 12 month note for £250 payable "at the County-house of Messrs. Bearing Bros & Co., London." Extremely Rare Type! JAY COOKE SIGNED
JAY COOKE & CO BANKERS

AE78. Jay Cooke (1821-1905) American Financier. In the early months of the American Civil War, Cooke cooperated with the secretary of the treasury Salmon P. Chase in securing loans from the leading bankers in the Northern cities; his own firm was so successful that Chase engaged him as special agent for the sale of the $500,000,000 of so-called "five-twenty" bonds. Cooke quickly sold $11,000,000 more in bonds than had been authorized. In 1865, with the government facing pressing financial needs in the wake of disappointing sales of the new "seven-thirty" notes by the national banks, Cooke's services were again secured. He disposed of the notes, reaching a total of $830,000,000 which allowed the Union soldiers to be supplied and paid during the final months of the war. It was in this effort that he pioneered the use of price stabilization. Certificate of Deposit for $1,600 at 4% dated 1872, Jay Cooke signs for his company. 5¢ Imprinted Revenue. Extremely Rare! Only 1 found! $950

NICHOLAS BIDDLE

FRANKLIN WINFIELD WOOLWORTH BROADWAY TRUST CO BOARD MEETING RESOLUTIONS

AE80. F.W. Woolworth (1852-1919), American merchant. The son of a farmer, Woolworth aspired to be a merchant. In 1873, he started working in a drygoods store in Watertown, NY.

He worked for free for the first three months, because the owner claimed "why should I pay you for teaching the business." He remained there for 6 years. There he observed a passing fad: Leftover items were priced at five cents and placed on a table. Woolworth liked the idea, so he borrowed $300 to open a store where all items were priced at five cents. Woolworth's first five-cent store, established in Utica, NY on Feb. 22, 1879, failed within weeks. At his second store, established in Lancaster, PA in April 1879, he expanded the concept to include merchandise priced at ten cents. The second store was successful, and Woolworth and his brother, Charles Sumner Woolworth, opened a large number of five-and-ten-cent stores. His original employer was made a partner. F. W. Woolworth personally signs along with 22 other board members including John H. Flagler and others who may well be very prestigious businessmen of the day. All directors of the Broadway Trust Co. sign on one page. Four additional pages of Resolutions are dedicated to former director Milo M. Belding. This custom bound and artistically enhanced memorial book was presented to his family. Very Impressive in every way! Excellent Condition! $1,750

HORACE GREELEY LETTER

AE81. Horace Greeley (1811-1872), American editor, founder of the Republican party, reformer. His NY Tribune was America's most influential newspaper 1840-1870. Greeley used it to promote the Whig & Republican parties, as well as antislavery and a host of reforms. Crusading against the corruption of Ulysses S. Grant's Republican administration, presidential candidate in 1872 of a new Liberal Republican Party, he lost in a landslide. Autographed Letter Signed dated 1840 which deals with the "Log Cabin" newspaper. Dated the very year of the Harrison Campaign. An attractive letter, reasonably readable considering Greeley's fame for poor penmanship. Great Condition with stampless cover sheet attached. $800

EDWIN BOOTH - SIGNED CHECK

AE82. Edwin Booth (1833-1893) Actor & brother of John Wilkes Booth. He had been entirely loyal to the Union. His audience showed itself equally loyal to him.

After opening Booth's Theatre in 1869, he went bankrupt in the Panic of 1873-74 but continued performing. He remained one of the greatest actors of all time. Autographed 1880's Check. Nice! $350

HORACE GREELEY LETTER

AE83. Autographed Letter Signed dated 1847 responding to a request for his autograph. ## DES MOINES RIVER IMPROVEMENT

AE120. IA, 1851, $500 Bond. Printer- Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson, NY. "Des Moines River Improvement" set the people in Central Iowa wild. No man who prized his popularity dared say a word against it. It entered politics and became the issue of the campaigns. The story is given out that in 1850 two men, running for Congress, were campaigning together, and saw a farmer in a field. The rivals started for him as fast as they could run. The one who reached the goal first stretched out his hand and cried, breathlessly: "Hurrah for river improvement!" Then he discovered the supposed farmer was only a scarecrow. But politics and speculation ruined the progress of Des Moines River Improvement. The bubble burst. In 1866 the Legislature declared the Des Moines no longer navigable. Gorgeous bond in Superb Condition. $350

QUINCY MINING COMPANY OF MICHIGAN

AE145. MI, Stock dated 1859-89 & Check dated 1879-89. Printer-J.J. Bloomfield, NY. Founded in 1846 to mine native copper deposits on property near Hancock, MI. During the course of the next one hundred and fifty years, the company produced 1.5 billion pounds of refined copper and issued $30 million in shareholder dividends. Its ability to consistently produce copper and stock dividends garnered it the nickname "Old Reliable" and spread its fame throughout the mining world. Although the company was one of a limited number of mining ventures in Michigan's Keweenaw copper district to generate substantial profits, its operations can be considered representative of many of the smaller, less successful companies that dotted the Copper Country between 1845 and 1970. Due to the increasing cost of mining at such great depth and the low price of copper during the depression years, the company ceased its underground mining activity in 1931. Before closing on May 6, 1967, the Quincy reclamation plant recovered nearly one hundred million of refined copper during its twenty-two years of operation. The Quincy smelting works continued scrap and custom work until the end of 1970. Though not scarce, this is one of the most important of all copper mining companies of Michigan. The Pair. $85

RAILROAD STOCKS

Prior to the Civil War in this country, railroads were a new and relatively untried invention. However, during the rebellion, railroads came of age. They became both strategic resources, as well as military targets, precisely because they were strategic resources. During the war, soldiers, materials and food were routinely transported by rail along with civilians and anything that was necessary to keep the war effort progressing. It was soon realized that the railroads would help to make or break the Union in this conflict which was so bloody that the combined total of all U.S. losses in all other wars would not equal the losses in that war. At least 618,000 Americans died in the Civil War. We currently have a small but choice inventory of railroad stocks dated during the Civil War. Feel free to phone us if you would like to collect this rather neglected period of railroad history. A nice addition to any Civil War Collection.

BUFFALO, BRADFORD & PITTSBURGH RR

AE156. NY, PA, 1866-73, Stock. The Buffalo & Bradford RR was incorporated in Pennsylvania on March 14, 1856. It also had the rights to construct branches and to intersect with the Sunberry and Erie Railroad and the Allegheny Valley Railroad. The two companies merged on February 26, 1859 to form the Buffalo, Bradford and Pittsburgh Railroad which was leased to the Erie Railroad on January 6, 1866 for a period of 499 years. It was most commonly known as the Bradford Branch of the Erie. Bold impressive vignette with transfer at bottom. Scarce. $100

GEORGIA

MACON & BRUNSWICK RR

AE175. GA, 1868, $1,000 Uncancelled Bond. Printer-John M. Burnet, Stationer. Chartered in 1856, the Macon & Brunswick was unable to make much progress on constructing its new line before the Civil War intervened. Not until 1867, when fifty miles of trackage from Macon to Hawkinsville was completed, was a substantial segment put into operation. After the state endorsed $2.5 million worth of the railroad's bonds and new investors were found in New York, the 174-mile road between Macon and Brunswick was finally completed. It opened in its entirety on Jan. 1, 1870. Colonel George H. Hazlehurst of Macon was the road's president. The town of Hazlehurst on the railroad line was named for him. Colonel George H. Hazlehurst signs as President! Several rows of coupons! Rare! $375
